The Campbell County Democratic Woman’s Club this week honored women serving in elected office in Northern Kentucky.

In a ceremony held on Thursday in Wilder City Hall, the woman’s club honored Court of Appeals Judge Michelle Keller, Campbell County Commonwealth’s Attorney Michelle Snodgrass, Campbell County District Judge Karen Thomas, Justice of the Peace Kathy Pinelo, Newport School Board members Julie Smith-Morrow and Ramona Malone, Bellevue Councilwomen Carol Rich and Kathy Almoslechner, Dayton Councilwoman Cathy Volter and California Councilwoman Emma Jean Neises.

More than 40 women from Boone, Kenton and Campbell counties attended to honor the officials, said Laura Roberts, acting president of the Campbell County Woman’s Club. She hopes to make it an annual event that could be held throughout Northern Kentucky.

“I think it is important to recognize these women,” Roberts said. “They are not in the headlines everyday but they are doing the job for the positions they were elected to. They need to be recognized too. They’re setting an example other women might like to follow.”
